this book looks at cuban and argentine theater of the late 1960s and early 1970s to see how the idea of spectacle as violence was used to comment on and question the social and political violence that was unfolding offstage in 1974 the international congress on world evangelization met in lausanne switzerland gathering together nearly 2 500 protestant evangelical leaders from more than 150 countries and 135 denominations it rivaled vatican ii in terms of its influence but as david c kirkpatrick argues in a gospel for the poor the lausanne congress was most influential because for the first time theologians from the global south gained a place at the table of the world s evangelical leadership bringing their nascent brand of social christianity with them leading up to this momentous occasion after world war ii there emerged in various parts of the world an embryonic yet discernible progressive coalition of thinkers who were embedded in global evangelical organizations and educational institutions such as the intervarsity christian fellowship the international fellowship of evangelical students and the international fellowship of evangelical mission theologians within these groups latin americans had an especially strong voice for they had honed their theology as a religious minority having defined it against two perceived ideological excesses marxist inflected catholic liberation theology and the conservative political loyalties of the u s religious right in this context transnational conversations provoked the rise of progressive evangelical politics the explosion of christian mission and relief organizations and the infusion of social justice into the very mission of evangelicals around the world and across a broad spectrum of denominations drawing upon bilingual interviews and archives and personal papers from three continents kirkpatrick adopts a transnational perspective to tell the story of how a cold war generation of progressive latin americans including seminal figures such as ecuadorian ren   padilla and peruvian samuel escobar developed named and exported their version of social christianity to an evolving coalition of global evangelicals
